

Attendance

The government has made it clear that from September the normal processes for attendance should be followed. If for any reason, you think you have special circumstances you must contact the secondary or primary headteacher (depending on the age of your child) and Jerome Barlow, the attendance officer on jerome.barlow@reachacademy.org.uk.

We know that there are some students who have chronic conditions which means that they will need additional support to access their education next term. We will work closely with you to ensure that your child is not adversely affected should they need to remain at home for health reasons.

If you are worried about attendance or wish to discuss your individual situation please get in touch.
